

Abstract

Methods and kits for removing scales caused by cradle cap on the heads of infants are disclosed and include topically applying to the scalp an effective amount of a pre-treatment composition, a shampoo and a moisturizer for respective time periods sufficient to 5 remove cradle cap. A scale-removing device is also used to help remove and loosen any scales.